Summary

Hello! I'm Muhammad Khalil Haider, an aspiring MERN Stack Developer with a passion for learning, building, and continuously improving my skills. Currently pursuing my Bachelor's degree in Computer Science, I'm focusing on diving deep into the technologies that power modern web applications.

My curiosity for tech started in childhood, when I wondered how websites appeared on Google and how Facebook worked when I first created my account. This natural curiosity led me to explore web development, beginning with the basics—HTML, CSS, and JavaScript—which laid the foundation for my front-end skills. As I grew, I expanded to back-end development with Node.js, Express.js, and MongoDB, and right now, I'm focusing on React to round out my full-stack expertise and build dynamic, responsive web applications.

I'm working on personal projects to apply and refine what I've learned. I'm excited to connect with like-minded developers and collaborate on impactful projects.

In addition to my technical focus, I have a keen interest in the intersection of tech and finance, exploring how these fields shape each other and impact the world. I'm documenting my learning journey here on LinkedIn to share my progress, insights, and challenges as I continue to grow.

If you're passionate about tech, development, or looking for a driven, curious developer to collaborate with, feel free to connect—I'm always open to new opportunities!

Experience

eBay

Product Listing & Marketing Specialist
February 2023 - May 2024 (1 year 4 months)

I manage product listings on eBay, ensuring they are accurate and well-presented. I handle SEO to improve search rankings and collaborate with the team to keep inventory details up to date. Additionally, I run email marketing campaigns within eBay to promote products and drive sales. My role focuses on efficiently using eBay's tools to list and market products.

TechShek
Co-Founder and COO
March 2023 - September 2023 (7 months)
Pakistan

Co-founded a tech-focused agency with three friends, where I managed business operations while assisting with design and development tasks. Each team member was responsible for their own tasks, and together we successfully acquired 2-4 clients. The agency ultimately ended after some time, but this experience gave me insight into team collaboration, client handling, and business operations.
